GREETINGS FROM GULFPORT, MISS.

*"Oh, stormy nights be they summer or winter,
Hurricane nights like these,
When spar and topsail are rag and splinter
Hurled o'er the slousing seas.
To the jagged edge where the Fort leans over,
Climb as you best may climb;
Lie there and listen what mysteries hover,
Haunting the tides of Time.
The crester breaker, on reef and boulder
That swirls it cavernous black,
Carries a challenge from decks that moulder
To ships that never come back."*

THE WRECK OF THE HERCULES,
Ship Island, Sept. 27th, 1906.
