New Book of the Month

Compassion Fatigue in the Animal-Care Community by Charles R. Figley and Robert G. Roop, 2006. Call number: HV 4708.F53 2006

Compassion fatigue, or "secondary traumatic stress disorder" is a phenomenon documented in both human medicine and animal care communities. Those who feel called to a caring profession can experience burnout precisely because of the strong patient-caregiver bond. Written by Fulbright Scholar and compassion fatigue expert Dr. Charles R. Figley and Humane Society VP for Human Resources and Education Dr. Robert G. Roop, this compact book details findings and practical approaches to dealing with the stress experienced by veterinarians, shelter medicine professionals, and those who perform euthanasia. A solid bibliography is included for further reading. Look for this and other new books on the CVM Library's "New Books" shelf ahead and to the right as you enter the library.

Computer Lab Tip: Always Log Out!

Whenever you're using a public computer at MSU, logging off will prevent future users from using your account to print. Be sure to wait for the "Are you sure you want to log off?" dialog box and click "YES" before leaving. Remember: you can always ask at the CVM Library information desk for assistance if you have trouble.

Our doors are always open to help you. Contact: Laurel Sammonds at lsammonds@library.msstate.edu or call the CVM Library at 662-325-1256

Critically Appraised Topic Competition

Veterinary students are invited to submit a Critically Appraised Topic (CAT) to a competition sponsored by Banfield Pet Hospital and the Evidence-Based Veterinary Medicine Association. The writing submission will use scholarly evidence to answer a clinical question. Winning submissions will be published in the Banfield Journal and the author will receive $500. Submissions are due by January 15, 2013. More info: <http://bit.ly/WeyrQx>.

Please Enjoy Food Prior To Entering the CVM Library

In order to curtail problems with food odors and pests, the CVM Library is now a food-free area. We're asking everyone in the Wise Center to assist us in keeping the library clean by eating before visiting to use our computers, print resources or study rooms. Drinks with lids and screw-on caps are, as always, welcome. We hope that you will support the library in our effort to provide a fresh, welcoming, and helpful environment for all of our students, faculty and staff to use. Thank you!

Workshops & Events

You asked—we deliver! Workshops on searching, productivity and research will be held here in the Wise Center over the course of the school year. All are welcome to attend.
