April 2nd. 1894.

To Whom it May Concern:

This will commend to the kind offices of all to whom it may be presented, Dr. Walter L. Jones, of this city, who expects soon to remove to the west and seek a home and fortune there. Dr. Jones is a dentist, by profession, and stands well in this city and community, in his profession. He is a gentleman of probity, educated and refined, and enjoys, in a high degree, the respect and confidence of the very best people of the community where he has been reared, and where he now resides.

Dr. Jones is a gentleman in every sense, and as such it gives me pleasure to introduce him among strangers, or elsewhere, with my unqualified indorsement.

Respectfully,

Governor of Mississippi.
