"Gloucester," Built by Winthrop Sargent, First Territorial Governor of Mississippi

Now Home of L. S. Stanton

114399-N

Home of Winthrop Sargent, first territorial governor of Mississippi. The doors are remarkable for their exquisite fan lights—Massively constructed with heavy inner bars, protection against Indians and bandits. Columns nine feet in circumference. Contains fine library, paintings by noted artists, marble mantels. Built 1803.

POST CARD

Dear Sis -
Pretty isn't it?
This card smells as musty as the old South itself. I don't have much news after the letter I just wrote
How many does this make from Miss.
"Al"
