Dear Gov.

I have a son 18 years old, has been out of school 2 years and all that time has been in the sawmill. We was anxious to make an M. D. of him, but he seems to have no disposition whatever to study for that profession. on the other hand he seems very much determined to be a mechanical engineer. therefore I think I shall send him to a mechanical school. will you please post me as to what the least is in the school over which you preside. also about the chances are for a boy who is determined & energetic to learn how much of his time would be be allowed to work how much to study.

Please answer.
